THREE KILLED IN BUS CRASH

ELEVEN INJURED AS CARRIER HITS TRUCK

Collision Occurs On Night Run As Both Vehicles Were Travelling At High Speed; Side Completely Torn From Bus

DOGUE'S RUN, Va., March 20. — Three persons were killed and eleven others injured near here today when a Brooklyn-Norfolk, Va., bus, operated by the Great Eastern Lines crashed into a heavy truck.

The collision was so great that the left side of the bus was torn off.

The dead: Mrs. W. B. Dudley of B. Ohmorundo, Richmond, Va.; John Clements and R. E. Sparks of Portsmouth, Va., and one man yet unidentified.

The injured: Louise Powell, Portsmouth, Va.; Robert Hardcastle, of Oaklyn, N. J.; J. E. Lawrence, Woodville, N. C.; Mrs. Mabel M. McDaniel, Norfolk, Va.; Mattie L. Hale, Winston Salem, N. C.; W. W. Martin, Norfolk, Va.; John W. Shaw, Edenton, N. C.; John W. McCall, Washington, W. Va., nearby.

GOVERNMENT - OWNED WHEAT IS CAUSING CONCERN AT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, March 20.—With a new crop approaching the Hoover administration was profoundly concerned today over disposition of the 200,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat now held by the federal farm board.

After weeks of conferences and consultations—including the visit of Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, to the White House—the administration has at last decided it must acquire additional storage facilities and hold the wheat for another year, or until there is a shortage either here or abroad. This was the only reasonable suggestion offered.

The administration was well aware that any effort to sell the 1930 surplus crop abroad now would wreck wheat prices not only in Europe but here as well. This was demonstrated some weeks ago when a plan was promoted to sell 35,000,000 bushels abroad, only to encounter hysterical opposition from the governments of every European nation.

President Hoover, prior to departing on a vacation trip to the Caribbean Sea, sought the advice of national economists, grain dealers, farm leaders, and even party leaders on Capitol Hill without evolving any definite plan for disposing of the surplus wheat. Borah, in his conference with the President, recommended the debenture form of farm relief as a means of disposing of future surplus crops—but even Borah wouldn't say the debenture could dispose of last year's surplus.

The problem has world-wide repercussions. For one thing, administration economists have concluded something must be done about silver, since its decline from sixty-four to thirty-two cents (as compared to the gold standard) has smashed the buying power of about half the earth's population, including the great masses of hungry citizens in China and India.

If silver were restored to its old value, thus restoring the purchasing power of India and China, it was argued, there would be new markets for America's surplus food products. This remedy would require international negotiations, a treaty possibly and a considerable delay in time—while America must continue to hold its surplus wheat crop for future markets.

Realization of the project, first proposed by the city nearly two years ago, will be made possible largely through the willingness of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. to co-operate in plans for removal of overhead construction in the business section despite the expense of several thousands of dollars which will be entailed.

Under present plans, with only a few minor wrinkles still to be ironed out, actual work of removing the network of poles and wires will be started not later than July 1 and the project will be completed not later than October 1, and perhaps much earlier unless there is a delay in getting in readiness for the work.

R. J. Guda, Dayton, official of the Ohio Bell, announced at the conference that a survey made by engineers of his company of the business district of Xenia developed the fact it would be impossible for the company to install a subway conduit system.

The expense would be too great, the installation would greatly increase the valuation of the local plant and present rates would not justify such an increase as the company would not receive an equitable return on its large investment, he said.

Mr. Guda also explained that an additional factor making the original plan inadvisable is the fact the telephone exchange is located on Whiteman St. and that a conduit under Detroit St. would not be a central line because it would not reach the exchange. He also pointed out that the wires on Detroit St., would be insufficient to entirely fill a tie conduit and make the plan justifiable.

As a result the company is offering to re-route the poles in the downtown area almost entirely and the intricate network will be completely removed from the infested territory.

An investigation by engineers of the firm revealed the company has nests of poles it would like to abolish. Under the plan devised the wires will be re-routed over existing poles outside the business

THREE KILLED WHEN TORNADO STRIKES CITY

Clinton, Oklahoma Swept By Twister; Damage Heavy

CLINTON, Okla., March 20.—An area of destruction three blocks wide and ten blocks long remained today in the wake of a tornado that tore through the western section of this city, killing three persons and injuring a score of others, six critically.

Property damage estimated at nearly $100,000 was wrought when the giant twister demolished two grocery stores, partially wrecked three school buildings and unroofed a dozen dwellings. The city business district four blocks to the east was untouched.

The dead are: Charles Collins, 23, electrocuted by a power line; Mrs. Louis Anderson, 81, crushed by falling timbers, and A. W. Anderson, 54, crushed.

RESCUE HOPE BASED ON AIR EXPEDITION WHEN SEALERS FAIL

Relief Reaches 127 Survivors Of Ship Explosion

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Mar. 20.—With 127 survivors of the destroyed sealing ship Viking safe aboard rescue ships near Horse Island, the last hope for finding of twenty-eight missing members of the Varick Frissell film expedition in Newfoundland's ice-jammed region was centered today on a projected air expedition organized in Boston.

Rescue parties from three sealers dragged food and medical supplies over five miles of treacherous ice to the water's edge. Later all of the survivors, who had been subsisting on rations of tea and biscuits, were transferred to the rescue ships Imogene and Sagona.

Twenty one of the rescued men dragged themselves from the scene of the wreck over eight miles of treacherous ice to the habitations on Horse Island; six others were picked up from the ice floes by the Sagona. One of these, Harry Sargent of Boston, was reported recovering rapidly from his injuries.

Of the others, W. Kennedy suffered from pneumonia, and Clayton King of frozen feet.

Hope for those unaccounted for was small, but it was understood here that Bert Eichen and Merlan Cooper, American aviators, intended to make a thorough search of the ice-locked region where the Viking was blown apart. Bitter cold and possible winter storms may be encountered by these fliers.

Sir Richard Squires, prime minister of Newfoundland, issued an official statement reviewing rescue activities by the various ships in Horse Bay. He listed survivors at 127 and those reported missing at twenty-eight.

He anticipated no further casualties and said all those rescued would probably recover. Edward A. Dow, American consul here, requested Washington to dispatch an ice cutter for whatever aid may be needed in further rescue work.

Kurdziel, his wife, five-year old son and 65-year-old father were thrown to the floor by the force of the blast which broke windows and plaster in the houses for several blocks around.

Police, called to the scene by neighbors, said the blast had been caused by six sticks of dynamite which had been placed at the side of the house. Damage was estimated at $11,000.

Kurdziel has been waging an editorial campaign against Communist activities for several months. Police believed the blast resulted from the campaign.

REDUCED PLANTING FOR CANNING SEEN

LONDON, O., Mar. 20.—Reduced sweet corn, tomato, bean and pumpkin acreages were predicted for this spring here today by canning factory owners and operators.

The reduction is due to the reduced demand for canned goods because of economic conditions, it was said.

Indications point, however, canners said, to greatly increased home garden acreage throughout central Ohio. Probably the largest total of home garden acreage in history will be recorded, it was predicted.

RIOT AGAIN BREAKS OUT

JOLIET, Ill., March 20.—Another riot in the state penitentiary was reported today. Warden H. C. Hill, who was testifying before the investigating committee as to the cause of the last three riots at the prison, was interrupted and told by one of his guards that the prisoners in Cell House F of the prison at Statesville were in mutiny. The hearing was adjourned to allow the warden to investigate.

Paul F. Kassay, alleged Communist, has been arrested in Akron after admitting, authorities say, that he planned the destruction of the ZRS-4, above, known as the Dirigible Akron, now under construction there. The picture was taken as workmen were "dressing up" the outside of the huge blimp.

CAUSE OF ILLINIOS PEN RIOTS SOUGHT BY PRISON PROBERS

Legislature Begins Investigation Of Joliet Mutiny

JOLIET, Ill., March 20.—Legislative investigation of the prison riots which have transformed the Joliet penitentiaries into armed military camps began today with investigating committee members determined to find the underlying cause of the mutinies.

Warden Henry C. Hill was the first witness called before the special legislative committee headed by Chairman Roger F. Little. Following the warden were to come a number of the convicts who were the instigators of the series of riots and who have been locked in solitary confinement since the mutinies.

Inasmuch as the scope of the investigation has been expanded to include the pardon and parole board, which the convicts hold to be the cause of discontent, the committee will call as witnesses members of this board as well, it was indicated.

Before the investigating body convened today Warden Hill announced that arson charges will be placed against some thirty prisoners held in solitary confinement as the ringleaders of Wednesday's revolt in the new Stateville penitentiary which was not quelled until seven new buildings had been burned down at a loss of nearly $1,000,000.

Fire in the ruins of the machine shop was still smoldering today as National Guardsmen, with bayonets ready for action, guarded the walls and interior of the prison. The cell blocks, some of them overcrowded with prisoners, were comparatively quiet due to the National Guard and state police, but a sullen resentment was still apparent in the attitude of the convicts.

The 4,702 prisoners, hungry for two days since the kitchen, bakery and dining hall were destroyed in the fire which raged in Wednesday's rebellion, were grumbling for food. The problem of feeding the prisoners now since the stores were destroyed and the kitchen fired presented a serious problem to the administration.

The convicts went through a constant shakedown for arms today with dull resentment. They were stripped and their cells searched for weapons as squads of National Guardsmen and state police went through both penitentiaries. No arms were found, but crude pieces of armament such as table legs and glass daggers were unearthed in the cells.

Preliminary questioning of several convicts convinced investigators that the apparently deliberate killing of three escaping convicts on Washington's Birthday had fanned the spirit of revolt as much as had the grievances against the parole system.

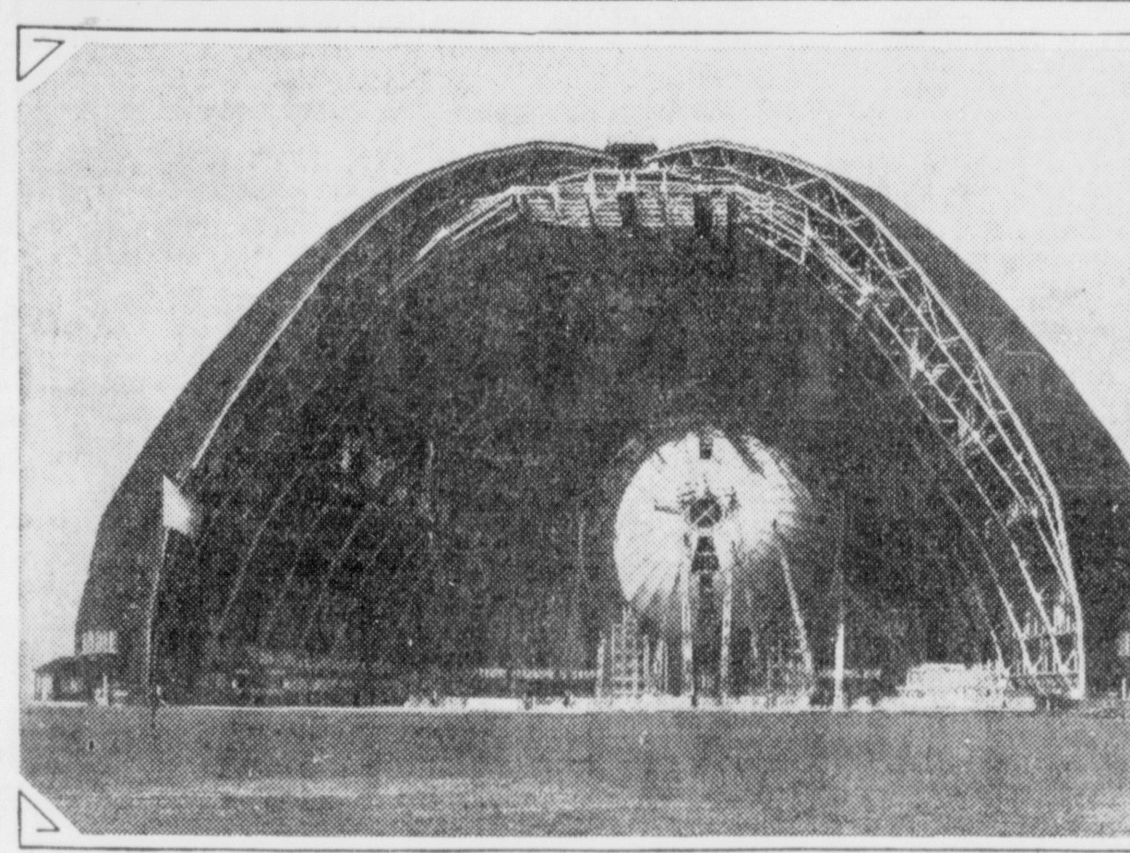

The first riot broke out Saturday in the old penitentiary and was not quelled until two convicts were shot to death and two were wounded. Wednesday's riot in the new Stateville Penitentiary resulted in three prisoners being wounded. One of these Raymond Barney, Negro, died of wounds.

LADY MARY HEATH DENIES LICENSE

NEW YORK, March 20.—Accused of "stunting" for camera-men, Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix, was to appear again today before Department of Commerce officials after a license was denied her.

Officials said she flew near their offices at Roosevelt field in a "dangerous manner" and denied her a full license. It was understood the English flyer would be given a license today and then suspended for fifteen days.

HUGE DIRIGIBLE DAMAGED BY WORKMAN

Paul F. Kassay, alleged Communist, has been arrested in Akron after admitting, authorities say, that he planned the destruction of the ZRS-4, above, known as the Dirigible Akron, now under construction there. The picture was taken as workmen were "dressing up" the outside of the huge blimp.

HARMONY REIGNS IN OHIO LEGISLATURE AS BUSINESS LOOMS

Calendar Committee Plans Schedule Of Activities

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—Harmonious at last, Democrats and Republicans of the state senate combined today to exhibit evidence of their determination to get down to the serious consideration of important bills when they come back here Monday to begin the twelfth week of their current session.

The "calendar committee," appointed yesterday after Democrats retreated from a previous position and agreed to select two members, today put on display the results of its first meeting. It was a schedule of five bills which the committee thinks ought to be taken up at the first possible moment at the short Monday night session.

Although agreeing to work in harmony with Republicans to the extent of appointing two members of the committee, Democrats expressed a guarded optimism at the change of heart in their previous denunciation of the majority for failing to submit to their demands for "equal representation."

Democrats had insisted upon a committee of four Republicans and four Democrats. Republicans offered them a four-three proposition. Finding that unsatisfactory, Democrats proposed a five-two arrangement, saying they could then leave the responsibility for whatever happened to the Republicans. When this was agreed upon, however, Democrats decided they would refuse to serve even in the two places.

At a caucus late yesterday afternoon several Democrats, led by Senators D. J. McLaughlin, Van Wert and Paul P. Yoder of Dayton, held out and over-ruled floor leader D. H. De Armond of Hamilton.

Senators De Armond and Thomas E. Williams of Celina were appointed to the two Democratic places. A set-back for insurgent Republicans was seen in the selection of Senator Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, for the fifth Republican place. Senator Walter G. Nickels of New Philadelphia, and other insurgents had insisted that Senator Frank

CHICAGO, March 20.—Pressure was brought to bear today to speed up the selection of a jury to try Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis for the gangland murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, the reporter who turned racketeer and became known as Chicago's unofficial police chief.

A special venire of 100 tilemen has been drawn and ordered to report when the trial reconvenes today. If this venire is not sufficient to complete the jury another 100 prospective jurors will be summoned it was announced.

Judge Joseph B. Sabath warned that night sessions may be resorted to to complete the jury before the end of the week. As the trial was resumed today only two men had been tentatively qualified for

THIRD LETTER TAUNTS BROOKS DEATH PROBERS

YOUTH SHOT BY POLICE AFTER PLOT IS BARED

Extortion Attempt Foiled By Officers At Oak Harbor

OAK HARBOR, O., March 20.—Shot eight times in the stomach by police as the result of an extortion plot, according to police, John Schwable, 18, of Oak Harbor, was reported near death at Pool Hospital, Port Clinton, today.

His companion, Russell Ellithorpe, 16, also of Oak Harbor, who fled in a swamp when police found the pair at an isolated spot where two Oak Harbor merchants said they had been ordered to place $300, was hunted by Oak Harbor police today.

The two youths, according to police officials, wrote Ed and John Welsch, proprietors of a general store in Oak Harbor and ordered them to place $300 at a spot along a railroad track between Oak Harbor and Fremont.

The Welsch brothers complied with the request and placed the money at the designated place Wednesday, afterwards notifying police. Oak Harbor authorities maintained a guard at the spot Wednesday night and yesterday. Shortly before midnight last night, the two youths appeared but began to run when ordered by police to halt. Schwable was brought to the ground by the gun fire and his companion escaped. Ellithorpe is not believed to have been wounded.

Authorities declare the car belongs to Sylvia Somers of Jackson, and assert that it was stolen in Jackson Wednesday.

AKRON EXPERT HOPED TO RUIN HUGE AIRSHIP

Viewed As Communist Plot; Jailed As Probe Starts

AKRON, O., March 20.—Allegedly admitting, according to authorities, that he planned the destruction of the ZRS-4, the United States navy dirigible which is under construction here, Paul F. Kassay, mechanical expert for Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation and one-time officer of the Austro-Hungarian navy, was held in Akron city prison today.

Kassay, charged with criminal syndicalism, was arrested at his home by Akron police at the request of federal officials. He was held in lieu of $25,000 bond, awaiting action of federal authorities.

Admission that he intended to wreck the ship came after he had been questioned for more than five hours by federal officials, according to Assistant Summit County Prosecutor George R. Hargreaves.

In a statement after the questioning, Hargreaves said Kassay had confessed to a plan to enter the control room of the giant airship, the largest dirigible ever built, shortly before its maiden flight and see that it did not take the air.

Kassay, who began work on the Zeppelin last June, also admitted that he attempted to weaken the ship by omitting rivets in the framework and that he was connected with the Communist party, the Summit County official stated.

Federal officials, headed by Assistant United States District Attorney William F. McDermott of Cleveland, today were confronted with the problem of determining whether any other persons were associated with Kassay in his sabotage plans.

A search of Kassay's home following his arrest resulted in the discovery of a quantity of Communist literature, a picture of the airship, known as the "Akron," and several letters. Kassay's wife, Mrs. Gorda Kassay, also was questioned by officials.

Mrs. Kassay told investigators that she and her husband were married twelve years ago and came to this country after the World War. Kassay was naturalized in 1926, she said. Two Kassays have one daughter, who is now visiting in Cleveland.

The suspect offered no resistance when he was taken into custody by city detectives. He is said to have admitted his plan to federal agents who were working at the plant in disguise last week. Kassay was arrested on the evidence supplied by the federal agents.

That plotters may be at work in the airship dock where the dirigible is being constructed, was indicated by city detectives. A month ago when a heavy iron safe mysteriously from a great height into some of the "Akron" machinery, Kassay, however, was not charged with an attempt to destroy the ship in the affidavit signed by Assistant County Prosecutor Hargreaves.

Officials at the Goodyear-Zeppelin plant today were inclined to doubt the possibility that any expert, regardless of his ability, could cause disaster to the ship because it is being thoroughly tested daily.

Exact date for the completion of the giant ship has not been determined but it is believed that the maiden flight will not take place before August. Dedication of the craft probably will be held sometime in June or July.

FAMILY OF SLAIN BROOKS GIRL

Photo shows the family of Virginia Brooks at San Diego, Cal., shortly after they were told that the body of the missing 10-year-old girl had been found, badly mutilated, on Camp Kearny Mesa by a sheepherder. Authorities have arrested a youth under sentence for burglary in connection with the kidnaping and murder.

VICTIM OF MISTAKEN IDENTIFY THOUGHT OFFICERS BANDITS

Revealing himself as the Xenia suspect mistakenly sought by Lucas County authorities in connection with the fatal shooting of Alfonso Miller, 39, filling station proprietor at Point Place, near Toledo, Tuesday night, M. C. "Jack" Weaver, 221 Hill St., said Friday that he mistook four local officers for bandits which resulted in an automobile chase punctuated by the firing of three shots about 3:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Weaver explained he had just returned from Springfield, after taking a girl friend home from a dance, had alighted from his auto and was about to put his car in the garage when he observed four men in plain clothes approaching him stealthily.

Thinking himself to be the intended victim of a hold-up the youth said he jumped back into his car, cut across the yard and drove away. If the officers shouted for him to stop, their cries were drowned by noise of his motor, he said. Officers, who had sought to question him as result of information supplied by Lucas County officials, gave chase and during the pursuit three shots were fired, bullets striking a tire and the gas tank on Weaver's machine.

Weaver said he was not held in custody but was released after being questioned when he convinced officials he was the innocent victim of unfortunate circumstances.

The search for the Toledo slayer had extended to Xenia because the license plates on the auto in which the gun wielder escaped had apparently been issued to a Xenia resident. The tags, however, were spurious, but exact duplicates of those issued to the local youth. Lucas County officials who came to Xenia Thursday also exonerated Weaver, admitting a mistake had been made.

Mrs. Overholser was born in Eddyville, Ky., April 23, 1855, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Holman and had resided in the Alpha vicinity since 1868. U. organization.

Besides her husband she is survived by the following children: Daniel H., who is located in the west; Clyde and William, at home; Mrs. A. L. Thompson, Alpha and Mrs. C. R. Giffelter, R. F. D. 12, Dayton. A sister, Mrs. M. B. Corwin, Cincinnati, and eight grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been made but will be announced later.

ARNOLD CONVICTED OF LIQUOR CHARGE

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—Convicted yesterday on charges of illegal possession of liquor by a federal court jury, Harry C. Arnold, chairman of the Franklin County Republican executive committee, today called a meeting of the county party organization to select a candidate for his vacated place on the county board of elections.

Arnold resigned from the board of elections within fifteen minutes after the jury's verdict was brought in but declared that he had no intention of giving up his place as head of the county Republican executive committee and proved it by promptly announcing today's meeting.

The verdict was followed at once by Judge Benson W. Hough's ruling that Arnold's fine would be $100 which includes costs of the trial.

VETERANS SHOULD WED BEFORE JULY 2

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—Sweethearts of World War veterans intending to be married this year, are warned by Col. Robert Haubrich of the U. S. Veterans Bureau here to "set the date before July 2."

Otherwise, in the event of their husbands' deaths due to causes traceable to the World War, they will not be eligible for government pensions.

A generally overlooked article in section 201 of the World War veterans act of 1924 states:

"The term 'widow' as used in this section, shall not include any one who shall have married the deceased later than ten years after July 2, 1921."

Counting up the ten years' period Col. Haubrich called attention that July 2, 1931 is the deadline.

SURVEY SHOWS "SOLDIERING"

Antioch Research Finds Non-Union Workers Loaf On Job To Prolong Work

RESULTS of a survey begun at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, sponsored by the Personnel Research Federation, and published this week, show that "soldiering" on the job to prolong employment and prevent rate cuts is widespread among non-union workers in the United States.

The situation calls for intelligent correction, according to Stanley B. Mathewson, executive director of the survey, who says that "underwork and restriction are greater problems than over-speeding and overwork," and that "the efforts of managers to speed up working people have been offset by the ingenuity of the workers in developing restrictive practices."

Trade unions are commonly blamed for deliberate restriction of output by workers, he further declares. The practice is not confined to the unions, he found while rubbing elbows with shrewd "open-shop" machine operatives, who advised him "not to work so fast."

As director of personnel administration at Antioch, Mr. Mathewson was confronted with such problems as that of the freshman who came to him at the end of his first work period on a job with the question, "Aren't students expected to give their best day's work to their employers?"

"Why do you ask?" "Well, on my job with the Blank Company I started out to do my best. Pretty soon one of the fellows told me not to work so fast. I didn't pay any attention to him; then others got after me, and finally the foreman spoke to me about it."

"Did you slow down then?" "Yes, I saw I was getting unpopular with the gang, but it bothered me not to try to do my best." "How should the director advise him?" That question, and others arising from it, seemed of such importance both from an understanding of industry and in the training of executives, that leaders at Antioch College decided to undertake a thorough field investigation.

In collecting his facts Mr. Mathewson held eleven different jobs as laborer, machine operator, bench assembler, conveyor assembler, and skilled mechanic; he lived with working people in their home environment and was accepted as one of them. His study was supplemented by six other workers, and the reports carefully checked. Among other startling findings was the practically universal distribution of restriction in all kinds of shops and industries, and the perfect familiarity with the facts on the part of all concerned—except the big chiefs and the efficiency experts!

The findings of the survey are given in the form of anonymous interviews with workers, to introduce the book entitled "Restriction of Output Among Unorganized Workers." Under the head of inferences and conclusions, the explanations of sixty-five executives are given, with the investigator's observations.

William M. Leiserson, professor of economics, Antioch College, contributes a chapter on the economics of restricted output; Henry S. Dennison, manufacturer, poses the question "What Can Employers Do About It?"; and Arthur E. Morgan, president of Antioch College, writes a final chapter of conclusions.

The study is said to be the most comprehensive yet published on its subject.

FRENCH LEGION

A soldier of the Legion lay dying in Algiers; There was lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of woman's tears.

The celebration of the hundredth anniversary of its organization—March 9, 1931—was not necessary to advertise the French Foreign Legion. There is probably not a civilized nation today that has not contributed to the motley personnel of this most widely known of military units. The story of the Legion has touched more than the poet's lyre. Wherever the spirit of adventure and a craving for glory spring eternal in a type of human breast it has been felt. The idea that the Legion is recruited entirely from jailbirds is anything but accurate—"some had diplomas and for some were warrants out." The men who have joined it for their country's good rub shoulders with others who have enlisted because they wanted to flirt with death.

The discipline in the French Foreign Legion is notoriously rigid, as is necessary to the successful control of a military organization in which dare-devils from a score of nations are thrown together. Strange tales are told of the merciless flogging of recalcitrants and of men turned out into the desert to perish of exposure. The fruit of this training is a perfect fighting machine. Whether in Africa or in Mexico or in the World War, where there has been an ultra-hazardous task for the French army to perform, the Legionnaires have been given a try at it. They had the post of honor, which means the spearhead. Their motto is "Avant!" Seldom is one shot in the back.

When one regards it objectively, as remarkable as anything about this remarkable organization is the fact that for a century it has never lacked recruits, attracted to it largely by a desire to gamble with death, a craving for the ultimate thrill. The foreigners who serve in it are not moved by love of country. They are not fighting for hearth and home and loved ones. They are fighting under a foreign flag for a country whose interests may conflict with their own country's. What is the appeal the Legion has for these men? C'est la gloire.

CHANGE NEEDED?

The former head of the black-hand squad of the New York police department, addressing a meeting recently, said of gang domination:

Good citizens themselves are responsible for the condition. They shirk their responsibility on election day. Gamblers and racketeers get together and elect their own candidate, and those candidates do what is "right" for the men who put them into office.

Although the truth of this statement is as old as representative government, we cannot have it repeated too often or too forcefully. Crime and corruption will continue to raise their ugly heads in our midst until human nature undergoes a radical change. They will dominate the government of any city where "good citizens" go fishing on election day. As long as we elect our officials by ballot the element that casts the most votes will dictate the sort of government under which we shall live. What many of our cities needs is a revolt of decency, which will turn out the rascals that are bending their judicial and administrative offices to the purposes of the underworld.

Perhaps it is just as well that Dr. Einstein and his fellow savants did not solve the riddle of the universe while they were in session in California. There are few things flatter or more uninteresting than a puzzle that's solved.

Recalling some of the things Mr. Coolidge has said about congress since he left office, we think we have a fair idea of the things Mr. Hoover has been thinking about congress.

It is easy enough to say that married women should remain home, but how are you going to make them do it unless they want to?

It is a curious circumstance that a "backward" state seldom furnishes a "backward" senator, vocally considered.

If migraine headache is a penalty for having good intellect, it is better to remain just a common low brow.

YOU'VE HEARD ABOUT DIGNITY

What is this Dignity you hear some people talk about? Is it gray hairs? Is it experience? Is it a slow and measured tread? Is it a sonorous and deliberate voice? Is it wealth and position? I wish I knew, because all my life I've been hearing about Dignity and I've never been able to find it in the places where it is supposed to be. I've heard people say, "I can't do that—my dignity will not allow it." Meaning, for instance, "I can't enjoy myself in that way, because people would laugh at me if they heard about it. I can't eat an apple in public, I can't get down on the floor and play tidly-winks. I can't admit anyone in my family ever worked with his hands. My dignity won't let me."

A GREAT NOVELIST ASHAMED

There was George Meredith, a great English novelist and poet. He was ashamed of the fact that his father was a tailor, and he tried to conceal it all his long life. And that fear that people would know his father was a tailor made him live a sneaking, furtive existence in that respect. Poor George Meredith, he knew little, really, of dignity. Even so great a man as Ralph Waldo Emerson once said: "We wish to be amused." As if being amused were any crime, unworthy of a man! So serious was Emerson, in so many ways, that he never missed a crowd of good things that make life worth while.

WHEN DIGNITY VANISHES

I have seen dignity in small children who will not yowl when they are hurt. I have seen it in a fine old tree, brooding in the long shadows at the end of a day. I have seen it in puppies, in horses, in all manner of people who do not know they are dignified.

And I'm inclined to believe that Dignity is something you never know you have. If you think about your Dignity, if you talk about it, if you consult your Dignity in a time of bewilderment, it vanishes. It is real, it is even good, until you mention it—and then it becomes a puff-ball or one of those sloughed-off snake-skins you find in the fields.

That's all I know about this thing called Dignity. Perhaps you know more!

He was a teacher and school in Illinois and Dakota prior to moving to Boston, 1884. Since then he has lived most of the time in the west. Julius Caesar's Calendar

When was Julius Caesar born? I would like to know something about the calendar he adopted?

Julius Caesar was born in 102 B. C. and died in 44 B. C. He decreed that the Egyptian calendar be adopted in 46 B. C. The Egyptians had equal months, but Caesar distributed the five extra days by adding one each to January, March, May, July, September and November and giving February 28 days. The Gregorian calendar of 1582 provided for an extra day (Leap Year) in every year divisible by four.

Ash Wednesday

What is the significance of Ash Wednesday?

Ash Wednesday is the first day of Lent, so-called from the Roman Catholic custom of placing ashes on the forehead. This ceremony was sanctioned by Pope Celestine III, in 1191. The practice dates back at least as far as the tenth century.

The terrier group includes English, Irish, Scotch and Skye terriers, fox terriers, black and tan terriers, turn spits and oriental pariah dogs. One of the best recent books on dogs is "Pure Bred Dogs," by the American Kennel club, G. Howard Watt, New York.

Ambergris

What is ambergris? Ambergris is a fatty, gray substance found in the intestinal tract of diseased whales. It always has been a rare substance much in demand. This product is soluble in hot alcohol and is used by perfumers to heighten the aroma of the particular scent they are making. One unusually large lump of ambergris, obtained off the coast of Australia, weighed 926 pounds and was valued at $135,000.

Bo-Broadway

IMPENDING SUIT

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—The proprietor of a cigar store in New York told detectives that the man who stuck up his stogie studio and robbed him of ten bucks, looked like a penguin.

"What'll be a penguin?" inquired one of the cops.

"A penguin's a bird," explained the perculous impresario.

The two detectives thereupon paid a visit to the zoo, devoted some time to studying the penguin, and next day made a pinch.

The prisoner said that when the unpleasantness blows over, he's going to the zoo, himself, and give the penguin the once over.

"An' if I don't look like dat," he said, "I'm goin' t' sue de cigar man fer libel."

How about the penguin?

'S TRUTH

The latest story going the rounds of the orange drink stands on Broadway deals with a music publisher who was recently offered a song called: "If Mother Had a Radio in Heaven." Two lines of the chorus ran:

"And every night at seven, She'd hear me up in heaven."

To which the music publisher objected.

"If mother had a radio in heaven," he said, "undoubtedly she'd tune in on Amos 'n' Andy at seven."

POLITICAL ANALYSIS INDICATES COUNTRY IS SPLIT THREE WAYS

WASHINGTON.—If economic and personal liberality could pull together, they would make a strong political team during the 19 or 20 months between now and next election.

That is to say—If the economically conservative wets would turn economically progressive for the campaign and if the economically progressive dries would turn wet for the same period, thus effecting a temporary combination, their joint vote would be worth serious consideration.

Opposed to such an alliance, the economically conservative dries could stand alone.

Not that their number is inconsiderable. Indeed, it generally is assumed now that President Hoover will run for a second term as an economically conservative dry, and even the most enthusiastic Democrats are no more than hopeful that he will be beaten. However, regardless of his expected dryness, no one questions that he will get a lot of wet votes. But he wouldn't get them, supposing the wet-progressive amalgamation above existed. How much difference it would make can only be guessed, but it certainly would be sufficient to reduce his chances.

It is true enough that an alignment of this kind appears absolutely impossible. Nevertheless, it is the most promising way for voters who object to present conditions, economic, or alcoholic, to change them.

How little there is of the get-together spirit between the two elements was demonstrated recently by a couple of important political gatherings in Washington—the regular Democratic national committee meeting just after congress adjourned and the more recent conference of partially assorted progressive leaders.

Considering that both were called to discuss plans for putting a new tenant in the White House, it would seem reasonable to have expected some indications of a disposition to co-operate toward accomplishing it.

On the contrary, it is easier to think of ideas each has in common with Mr. Hoover than they appeared to have with one another.

Despite formidable dissent in its own ranks, the group in Democratic control obviously is wet and Mr. Hoover is supposed to be dry. But then, Mr. Hoover is conservative. Evidently the Democratic managers are conservative likewise.

Mr. Hoover's conservatism is anathema to the progressives. Still, he is dry. Most of the progressives are dry also.

Dry conservatism is in 100 per cent accord neither with wet conservatism nor dry progressiveism, but it is in 50 per cent accord with either one of them, separately.

Wet conservative and dry progressive discord is 100 per cent.

Wet progressive-ism would offend dry conservatism if there were more of the former, but there isn't. This is well exemplified in the senate.

Senators Borah, Brookhart, Cutting, Frazier, Howell, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Schall and William H. McMaster and W. B. Pine, whose senatorial terms have but just ended, are the only ones who are not dry. They are the only ones who are not dry. They are the only ones who are not dry.

FIRST ROBINS!

Liquid Diet Is Nourishing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

An order for liquid nourishment often goes out to one kind of patient or another. It sounds thin and undernourishing—Liquid Nourishment. How can anyone extract any nourishment out of just liquids?

For those who are doomed to liquid nourishment there may be comfort in reflecting how great a variety there is in liquids.

"A glass of milk" is of course, the first thing that comes to mind. But that does not exhaust the possibilities of the subject. There is lemonade, orange juice, grape juice, cocoa, eggnog, cream, buttermilk, tomato cream soup, chicken broth, beef juice, oyster stew (without the oysters), etc.

The amounts of calories in these drinks is surprising. Mrs. Rose gives the following list of drinks in amount which make 100 calories apiece:

Food	Weight (Ounces)	Measure
Lemonade	11.0	12-5 cups
Beef juice	14.1	12-3 cups
Buttermilk	9.9	11-8 cups
Cream, thick	4.0	1-3 tbsps.
Cream, thin	2.9	1-3 cups
(18.5% fat)	1.8	1-4 cup
Eggnog	3.7	1-2 cup
Grape juice	3.5	1-2 cup
Milk, whole	5.1	5-8 cup
Orange juice	8.2	1 cup
Cocoa, 1-2 milk	5.5	3-5 cup
Cocoa, all milk	3.8	2-5 cup
Cocoa, milk and whipped cream	2.9	1-3 cup

It can easily be seen that a diet of considerable variety and of good nourishing quality can be planned from liquid nourishment alone. By using enough cream and sugar in different mixtures it is easy to get up to 1,800 calories without making the convalescent feel stuffed.

How many households make junket any more? It is a delicious and nutritious food celebrated in song and story. Junketing parties were gay affairs, riding down to the dairies of old England for the day. It must once have been a familiar household dish, because the famous Miss Muffet was on a porch alone.

The sputum should be expectorated into a sputum cup or paper napkin and burned daily. The patient's eating utensils—plates, saucers, glasses, etc.—should be kept absolutely apart from those of other members of the house and washed in a separate dishpan and boiled in a separate receptacle. Children should not be kissed or fondled by the patient. The patient's linen should be treated separately in a similar manner to the eating utensils.

Advised Marry "Close Friend"

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What would you do in a case like this?

"Dear Virginia: I wish to have you tell me what to do. I married a divorced woman and we don't seem to agree. She is disagreeable, has spells when she won't speak, and if she does, it is words which are enough to kill you with grief."

"She is much older than I. We have been married nearly a score of years. There are no children, but have wished many times that there were."

"I still like to get out and go and have a jolly time, but she refuses to go with me, says she is getting old. I own a nice closed car and know no reason why she can't go. Although she is nearly half a century old, I think she might get ambition enough to get herself ready and go. I would love to have her go with me."

"If I go she is jealous and acts out of sorts and calls other women names and accuses me of being with them. Now, I'm a farmer and have to work hard for a living. She has money of her own and owns this farm. I am in my thirties."

"Troubled and Lonesome Me." How come you married a woman so much older, and a divorced woman at that? Didn't it strike you that she might have been somewhat to blame in the wreck of her former marriage? It's always best to be careful in marrying a person who has made a failure of one marriage.

And you should have thought, too, of the difference in ages. But all this does not help you now, does it?

Probably your wife is not in very good health. Women of that age often pass through a very trying period, you know, and that may account for her lack of ambition to go out and her jealousy. A wife or husband who is older than their mate is quite apt to be jealous. It's a common fault under those circumstances. Possibly, too, she wishes she had children and that lack makes her unhappy. You, being younger, might try to be both son and husband.

You must be very considerate of your wife. Try to find out what will make her happy and then act accordingly. Make her see that it will do her good to get out with you, and that you want her. Then, if she agrees to go, see that she has a good time.

Someone said the other day that we should marry people with whom we can be close friends. Try to be a close friend of your wife's and see if you can't be happy together again.

Waiting: Just act natural when out with the boy friends, and also when out in a crowd. If you are natural in your manner, and considerate of your friends, you will be all right.

Paul: I think the boy friend you love may like you pretty well, but feels he can't spend money to take you out, so doesn't ask you for dates. And he probably doesn't relish the idea of others taking you out. Just keep on being friendly to him, and, after awhile, if he still avoids you, make up your mind that he really doesn't care, and try hard to forget him by going with others. Girls of 15 may go out with boys occasionally if their parents approve of it and of their friends.

GRANDMOTHER: You could take the matter into court and compel the child's father to contribute to his support, if you cared to do so.

Sandals Startle Resort Society

By GLADYS GLAD

One of the ultra-fashionables recently startled the frequenters of the Casino at Deauville by appearing in a soft, creamy evening gown, with her stockings feet, encased in a pair of barefoot sandals. Her toes were fully exposed to view, and each polished little toenail was tinted a deep, brilliant red to match the red hue of her finger nails!

Although a trifle bizarre, the total effect was indeed charming.

French women are a good deal more particular about the grooming of their feet than are the American females. The Chinese pedicure, which is now so much the vogue in Paris, hasn't even begun to attain popularity on this side of the big pond. The French mannequin tries to keep her feet as youthful in appearance as her face. And she pays particular heed to her toenails, for their texture and condition so easily reflect age.

Few women fully realize how misshapen, how thick, hard and unsightly the toenails may become if they are not given special care. The care of the toenails should begin early in life, for often the harmful results of neglect of the toenails are evident only after middle age has been reached. And it is difficult then to remedy the damages that have resulted from years of neglect.

Maltreatment of the feet by the wearing of shoes or stockings that cramp the toes and nails, can change the shape of the toenails. I have seen instances where the nails were literally moved from their grooves, and hunched into slender, horribly thick nails. Shoes should always be broad enough to permit the toes to function normally.

When you take your nightly bath, you should always scrub your toes with a bland soap and a flesh brush to remove any deadened skin. After the bath the excess cuticle around the toenails should be rubbed off with a Turkish towel. If you are extremely careful, you may use an orange stick to clean under the nails and to remove the excess cuticle. But do not attempt to push the cuticle very far back with this implement, as it may prove harmful to the foot health.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Warts

Lola: Warts are caused by skin infection. It is dangerous for you to attempt to remove them yourself. See a skin specialist about them.

Knock-Knees

A. B. S., G. B. R. and E. K.: If you are under 16 years of age, the exercises contained in my article on "Care of the Feet and Legs" may help to shape your legs. In some cases, an operation is necessary to correct knock-knees.

Dark Circles

ANDREX Brunette: Dark circles under the eyes result from lack of sleep or ill-health. If you obtain the required eight hours of sleep every night, I would advise you to consult a physician. To my knowledge, plastic surgery is the only method of reshaping the nose.

Standard Weight

Sally and Michaelina: I think that a girl of 14 years of age and 5 feet 1 inch in height should weigh about 108 pounds. A girl 15 years old and 5 feet 1 inch tall should weigh about 110 pounds.

SIXTEEN GATHER AT COLUMBUS IN STATE COURT TEAM FINALS

Hundreds Of Fans Of
Each School Also
At Tourney

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—Sixteen impatient high school basketball teams—by 10 o'clock tonight there will only be eight—awaited their turn here today to prove their separate contentions that they are the best in the state.

They gathered today, followed by hundreds of enthusiasts from their home towns and cities, for the most colorful basketball spectacle of the year, the finals of the state tournament which will be staged today and tomorrow at the huge state fairgrounds coliseum, the home grounds of the Ohio State University quintet.

Tournament officials boasted that all the glitter and glamour of the scores of county, regional and sectional meets that preceded the opening of the final event were multiplied several times in arrangements already completed for the tourney here.

The first round of play in class A and class B tilts this afternoon and tonight was to eliminate four teams in each division. The eight survivors, four from each class, will then fight it out for the championship in class A and class B tomorrow.

Canton McKinley, choice of critics for the class A crown, was to make its appearance at 3 p. m. in a game against Hamilton. The contest will open class A hostilities.

Class B competition starts at 1 p. m. Last year's champion, Lancaster St. Mary's, will meet Toledo Whitmer, at 7:30 p. m.

To the winner of the Class A title, which will be decided in the last game of the tournament tomorrow night at 9 o'clock before a crowd of several thousand fans from all parts of Ohio, will be awarded Ohio State University's Johnny Miner Trophy, presented first in 1926 in honor of one of the Buckeyes' all-time basketball stars.

The trophy, more than three feet high and a bronze statue of Miner in the act of shooting, is the most prized of all Ohio's athletic awards. Zanesville, Dover and Dayton Silver Stars teams have previously won it.

COST OF LIVING CONTINUES TO FALL; UP GOES POWER OF DOLLAR

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The cost of living continues to come down and has reached a point where the purchasing power of the 1926 dollar was $1.325 in February, the bureau of labor statistics announced today.

Wholesale prices dropped 2 per cent in February from the January level, while the retail cost of food decreased about 4.13 per cent, and 17 per cent since February a year ago.

The largest price decline in retail prices was in eggs, which declined 25 per cent. Lard and onions increased 8 per cent; pork chops and potatoes 7 per cent; chuck roast and plate beef 5 per cent; sirloin and round steak, but ter and Oleomargarine 4 per cent; rib roast, sliced bacon and ham, hams, cheese, navy beans and oranges 3 per cent; fresh milk, evaporated milk, bread, macaroni, canned corn and peas, coffee and bananas, one per cent.

There was no price change in flour, cornflakes, wheat cereal, rice, cabbage, sugar and raisins.

From January 15 to February 15, Columbus showed a decrease of 15 per cent in the average cost of food. Cincinnati, Cleveland and Pittsburgh showed decreases of four per cent.

Wholesale prices of farm products as a group decreased 4½ per cent below the January level, due to lower prices for most grains, beef cattle, hogs, poultry, eggs, hay, onions, potatoes and wool. Eggs in particular showed radical price decreases in the month. Milk also averaged somewhat lower than in January. Sheep, lambs and cotton, on the other hand, were somewhat higher.

Foods were 3½ per cent lower than in January, with declines in fresh and cured meats, lard, dressed poultry, dried fruits, coffee and sugar. Butter and flour in most markets showed little change, butter becoming firmer and flour prices weaker toward the end of the month. Both butter and eggs in February were at lower levels than at any time since pre-war days.

In the group of textile products there were small decreases among cotton, goods, silk and rayon, and woolen and worsted goods, while advancing prices of burlap caused a small increase among other textiles.

Bituminous coal and petroleum products moved slightly downward. Among metals and metal products there was a negligible increase in iron and steel.

Lumber, brick and cement declined in price. Structural steel and paint materials, on the contrary, advanced in price.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 20.—Forward movements in the stock market today were confined to a small group of the industrial favorites. Powerful pools and professional speculators whipped up prices of Radio, Westinghouse, General Electric, U. S. Steel and other speculative leaders both as a challenge to the bears and in recognition of the improvement that has come into strategic business lines in the last two weeks.

area without making additional aerial construction necessary. All services will still be cared for as at present under the new plan.

The newly-proposed plan, which met with general satisfaction at the conference, must be submitted to the company engineers for final approval and minor revisions and it is estimated that it may take from thirty to sixty days before the necessary material is manufactured and preliminary details worked out.

Completion of the project will enable the city to further beautify the business district by installation of a boulevard lighting system and will pave the way for erection of newly-purchased overhead traffic signals at additional street intersections.

Five utilities were represented at Friday's conference by the following officials: Ohio Bell Telephone Co.—R. J. Guda, Dayton, and E. W. Cleaver, Xenia; Pennsylvania Railroad—W. E. Staley, Chicago; G. E. Bradley, Chicago; A. B. McFerrin and T. E. Giffin, both of Xenia; Western Union Telegraph Co.—William Quinlisk, Cleveland; Postal Telegraph Cable Co.—W. A. Schwiabert, Chicago and H. M. Smith, Dayton; Dayton Power and Light Co.—E. H. Heathman, Xenia, and F. D. Kendig, Dayton.

MAD LAUGHTER

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY By MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 47
Dick was awakened by a touch on his shoulder, and started up, in full possession of his senses, to confront the matron. "I've got good news for you," she said. "Miss Weatherleigh has regained consciousness, and her brain shows no ill effects from the blow. In fact, I think that, before very long, we shall be able to move her to her home. We have told her that you are here, and you may see her for a second or two."

She led him into Allison's room, tactfully remaining outside the door. Allison gave a little cry of delight as she saw him, and he bent down and kissed her tenderly. "How do you feel, sweetheart?" he asked.

"All right," she replied bravely. "I've got a dreadful headache, though, as if I'd had a night out. Listen, Dick, I had an old pig of lead in the car when that tree hit me. It belongs to a friend of father's, and I was taking it to Lestrige Hall for father to see. I believe it's very valuable, but nobody was to know anything about it till father had examined it. You might find out what has become of it."

"I'll see to it for you," replied Dick cheerfully. "It's probably still in the car, which I saw being towed to a garage. But you needn't worry about it, darling. Dr. Weatherleigh has been told of your accident, and he is on his way here now."

The matron interrupted their conversation, and led Dick from the room. "The less she is allowed to talk the better," she said. "All she wants is perfect rest. Dr. Weatherleigh ought to be here very soon now, he telephoned from London three or four hours ago, asking for the latest news, and saying that he was continuing the journey by car, since there was no train for some hours."

Dick looked at his watch. To his amazement it was nearly eight o'clock in the morning; he had slept the clock round. There was no time to be lost. Allison's accident had driven everything else out of his mind, but now the events of

The Theater

At the rate things are going, every actor in Hollywood will soon be able to use that old bromide: "I was a newspaperman once myself."

Fox is the latest studio to plan a picture about the press. Following the example of "Fire Star" and "The Front Page," it will lambast the tabloids. Bradley King, one of Hollywood's more competent scenarists, has been assigned to write the story and William McGrath, ex-tabloid reporter, will act as her adviser.

Adolphe Menjou
can make talkies in many languages—
speaks English, French, Spanish,
German and Italian.

Newspaper stories seem to be the current rage.

First National will make "Five Star Final," the scathing criticism of tabloid yellow journalism which expressed Broadway legitimate audiences this winter. Adolphe Menjou will play the part of the managing editor in this film, the role having been originally slated for the late Louis Wolheim. It seems funny—Menjou taking a part for which Wolheim was originally scheduled.

Joan Crawford the part of a sob-sister in "Dance, Fools, Dance," a film that has not yet shown here and Lewis Ayres, hero of "All Quiet on the Western Front," will be a reporter in one of his new vehicles.

Then of course there is "The Front Page," that colorful and picturesque newspaper play that Howard Hughes made and which has just been released through United Artists. Incidentally it is a hang-up production, another rather in the cap of Lewis Milestone, who directed last year's film "All Quiet." "The Front Page" is being considered for front lines in California. Theater men figure the public will want to see how Milestone got around the for-

FINED FOR FORCING ENTRANCE TO HOUSE

Fred Moore, 41, colored, 78 Taylor St., who has a record of five previous arrests, was fined $100 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday morning.

Moore, police say, attempted to force his way into the home of his divorced wife on E. Main St. Wednesday night during her absence and after smashing a window in order to gain entrance was driven away by a son of the woman by her first marriage. The son, armed with a shotgun, fired once at the intruder.

Moore's brother, Raymond, 24, same address, was also taken into custody Friday morning on a disorderly charge and an affidavit charging him with discharging firearms within the city limits may also be filed. He was only released from jail last Monday.

LOSES CHICKENS

A complaint received at police headquarters Friday morning from Henrietta Bull, Bryan Road, who reported the theft of twelve Plymouth Rock chickens Thursday night, was referred to county authorities for investigation. She told police that about 11 p. m. she heard an auto stop and that sometime afterward the car started off again, apparently toward Xenia.

WORK OF DEPENDENT CHILDREN SPURRED

Prominent local people are interested in the organization, including W. W. Galloway, Cedarville, and Miss L. K. Miller, Alpha, who are voluntary members, along with the following Xenia people: Judge H. L. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James

THE NEGLECTED DEBUTANTE

The society columns referred to her as "one of last season's buds." Other girls her age married and set up homes. While she was left to face the future alone. Yet if she had only known in time...

Too often, really charming girls allow poisons of constipation to take the bloom from their cheeks, to bring the pimples and wrinkles that age complexions.

Constipation is so much more prevalent among women, so much more difficult for them. What a pity when prevention is so easy. Simply eat a delicious cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the intestines clean of all poisonous wastes. How much better than taking habit-forming pills and drugs.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use for making fluffy bran muffins, breads, cmelets, etc. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
